

Help us help you

Dear Alumni

Please go to Memory Lane and check out the pictures that were recently posted. I'm sure you will enjoy the march down memory lane. Many great shots as people were arriving at the Mega Reunion held in March of 2007.

Our major problem is presenting names to go with faces. We are soliciting your help in identifying as many people as possible. Results will be published as names surface. We will gladly accept Real Names; Nicknames; Alias's; AKA's; I Think I Know That Face, or Whatever Suits Your Fancy. But please give us answers. Please help!

Thanks

The Editors at HixNews

PS. We plan to follow up with additional shots over the next several months. We ask your help in providing names. Another request...can you also provide some candid shots from high school that we can also share with our alumni?

I have a 1965 yearbook that if someone wants it, I would be willing to send to them. It does have my name imprinted on it. Please let me know. I am downsizing.

Darlene (Grecz) Sacks '67

Editor: I took advantage of the offer and Darlene also sent me a copy of the 1966 edition. This will help enhance our monthly newsletters.

Thanks so much Darlene.

I recently received this email from a friend and former business associate of mine. He is married, five boys, ten years younger than me, and a wife with polycystic kidney disease, who had a kidney removed a year ago and has her own dialysis machine at home. Al found out he has breast cancer and had the nipple removed and a "port" installed in his chest for chemotherapy treatments.

After reading the email and in light of their situation, I thought it was worth passing onto you to share with the Hix Newsletter readers so they are reminded of how precious life is and that they cherish and enjoy each moment.

Hi:

I would like to request that I be placed on the Hicksville News Letter e-mail address list. I was receiving it and then it just stopped. I was a graduate of Hicksville High School in 1958.

Thanks for your help.

Margaret Keigwin (Pfundstein)

When's the last time you saw a mailperson with the tie, hat, jacket and a smile?

Editor Note:

Dear Margaret, If you used to receive our HixNews announcements previously, it was because you were using an email address that was registered in our database.

Now you are using a new email address that was not registered with us.

I have changed your subscription to reflect your current email address. Please notify us if you make any changes in your email address. Otherwise, it could make it difficult for us to figure out what went wrong.

Fun Email Fact

During Bill Clinton's entire presidency (1993–2001), he only sent two emails. One was to John Glenn when he was aboard the space shuttle, and the other was a test of the email system.

Letters, letters, letters

Dear Editors,

I was particularly touched by the tribute to Pat Driscoll and the numerous pictures of her and her family in the April issue. Pat was a huge help to the Vietnam War Era Memorial effort and was inspirational in getting our list of names and spreadsheet better organized, even after she moved to hospice care. That's the type of lady she was. While I feel like I know her from the many emails we shared, it is truly my loss to have never had the opportunity to meet her in person. What a great lady she was!

I also enjoyed the article announcing Coach Kellner's passing and had no idea he accomplished so much after he left good old HHS. Back in the early 60's he was just another assistant round ball coach to many of us!

Last, the Newsletter Section keeps getting better and better! Great pictures and graphics continue to make it even more interesting to read. I really enjoy the "then and now" pictures you've been doing for a long time now. This month, as in past issues, I again picked up some missing data there for a couple of our Vietnam Veterans.

A SPECIAL THANKS goes out to all of you for the great work you do every month!! I know it keeps all of you tremendously busy, but I also know your readers really enjoy the fact that you continue to make good old Hicksville High and all our school years there very special with all the memories you and all the alumni contributors give us every month.

All the best,

STILL MORE LETTERS

To All:

My email account has been hacked. If you receive an email that seems uncharacteristic of me, please ignore it. The emails are harmless but annoying. My apologies.

Jim Gorman '66

The most common email passwords:

password	123456	qwerty	abc123	letmein	monkey
Password1	asdfasdf	(your first name)		(your child's name)

If you recognize any of these as your password, time for a change!

Use a combination of letters, numbers and (if allowed) special characters. Hi-Xv_82 is a great example of a solid password and something you could remember!

Quick & Easy Fixes

Change your email password on some frequency. Once a month, change your email password by substituting new numbers in your password

NEVER give your password to anyone!

Have two passwords that you use... one important one that is VERY secure (see above) and one that is used for annoying websites that you don't care about.

For all those annoying websites that ask for an email address to allow you to sign up, use a free service like Gmail to have a "throw-away" email address that you don't care about.

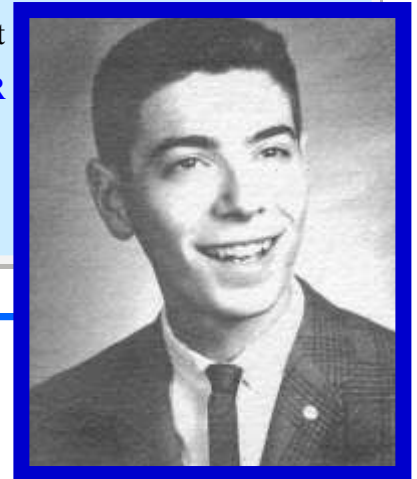

Talkative bunch, aren't you?

Henry

Maybe it's my eyes, but I don't see a "contact" option on the website.

Anyway....I DID SEE the (FOR FREE) on the banner and I remember that Hester Easer, my English teacher in 1961, used to say that nothing is "FOR FREE"; it's just "FREE". Maybe you could fix it in her honor?

Hi Henry.

Thanks for the great introduction to my profile. I think the "intro" was better than the profile! But that said, it would be great if more women wrote into the News. It is hard to get them to send a line, no less write a paragraph. My 1964 girls are not much for writing. We used to send a lot of hand-written "notes" to each other, this is the same deal, just typed. Anyway, the news was great, the fonts were great, always readable and understandable.

Thanx, Judy. Hopefully, your profile will inspire others to follow.

Hello All:

Great work on the newsletter! I have a favor to ask. Could you point me in the right direction to request a birthday greeting for my wife. Janis is a member of the class of 60 and her birthday is August 30th. Thanks for your help.

All the best,
Marty Polsenski '59

Hey Marty

What's Janis's maiden name? And do you guys share the same email address or does she have one of her own? If she has one of her own, would she like to subscribe to our monthly announcements, too?

Dear Class of 1961 Friends

Hi, you all. It is with deep regret that my wife Wendy and I will not be attending the reunion in September. We were excited about attending, but since then circumstances have interfered. We wish all of you all have a grand and merry time and we will be thinking about those we remember fondly and those whose names are familiar.

Thanks for all the contacts and news and hope to keep in some semblance of communication.

Dear HixNews

I am listed as a new reader in the June issue. This is an update regarding my current employment. I am living in Boca Raton, Florida and work in Freshman Academic Advising Services at Florida Atlantic University. My official title is Executive Secretary.

I graduated in 1973 and am looking forward to seeing more students from my class add their names to the HixNews mailing list.

Dear HixNews:

What a nice surprise. Thanks for the birthday card and keep up the good work. I had dinner last week with Pierre Swick, a friend from the class of '57. We linked up via your web page. He lives in Vermont, but his life partner, Laurie, has a son who lives near me in Bethesda. They came down to visit him and then came over to Falls Church and we went out to dinner. Only 54 years since we last saw each other.

Norman Hicks '57

Hi everyone at HixNews,

Just wanted to send a belated "Thank You" for the cute anniversary card you sent in May, and to say that I do appreciate all the work you people do to get the newsletter out each month. It is always on time and full of good stuff.

I also want to add a name to the deceased list for the class of 1957. A few years ago you printed a wonderful tribute to Elizabeth Sherin written, (if my memory is correct), by her daughter, that had been read at her funeral service. I don't recall the year, but do remember her being at our 45th class reunion in 2002 and I believe it was just a couple of years or so after that when she passed away from cancer.

Carole Kiever Ohliger '57

Thanks so much for the great birthday greeting - loved the cake baking bears - if I didn't know better I would swear this was filmed in my kitchen! Fun being remembered by the old Hicksville High newsletter gang! Take care.

I just wanted to say thank you for the birthday card. It really made me laugh and I watched it several times. I have a picture with Dennis DeNoso in the center. Do you want some old pictures that I may have? If so where do I send them?

Thank you again for the Newsletter, I really love reading it. Once I saw a page identifying all those that have passed on, how do I access that page?

Blessings,

Dear HixNews:

Thank you so much for the beautiful Anniversary Card sent for our 62nd Wedding Anniversary. We were married in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church on Nicholai Street, Hicksville on May 29, 1949. Paul graduated from Hicksville High School in 1945 and we are now retired on a small golf course in Orlando.

Thanks again.

Margaret and Paul Divan '45

Our anniversary card was well-received 56 years. As a Korean War veteran, I applaud the efforts of the group to establish the Vietnam roster. I was part of the forgotten war and these veterans were used and abused. Looking forward to our next anniversary card.

Looking for

Hi-

I am a graduate of the HHS class of 1965. Although I do not see her listed as a member, I do know that Susan (Suzie) Sitzer. I don't remember her married name. She passed away sometime in the mid 2000's, maybe around 2006. I was living in Beaufort, NC at the time and she was living in Florida. We had been communicating by phone and email. Unfortunately, one day I received a blanket email sent out by one of her two sons that she had passed away.

One son is a doctor and one is a lawyer. Whoever sent the note used her Yahoo address book (I believe) to help contact people to notify them that she had passed.

Not sure I'm able to search that far back in my Yahoo mail to locate the specific missive. If I do, I'll give you more specific details in terms of her married name and the year she passed away. She was a bright and funny girl/lady!

Respectfully

Philip R. McCrea '65

Hello-

I am currently looking for my aunt, Diane Schroeder, who graduated Hicksville high and was an alumna in 1967. Please let me know any info you may or may not have.

Thanks

Irene Burton

Dear Irene Burton,

The only information that we have about your aunt, Diane Schroeder, is that she graduated from Hicksville High in 1967. All other information about your aunt we don't have.

We will, however, add your inquiry to our list of "People Looking for People".

Looking for...

Hi Buffalo Bob.

I don't see the name of Diane Schroeder on any list that I have...I was part of a few of the reunion committees and I still have all my lists. Her picture is not in the yearbook with the class of 1967. My guess is she graduated a different year or maybe went to a private school.

Peggy Moldovak Gill '67

If it's the Diane Schroeder I know, she graduated in my class (1968). She lives in Amityville, NY. If you want to have Irene email me, I have her phone number but not her address.

Nancy Bosse '68

Nancy:

Please do that and let's hope that we can close the case on Diane Schroeder. What was your maiden name???

I went a little further and found Diane's graduation picture on classmates in the 1968 yearbook.

Her name is spelled Schroeter.

If you get additional information, please forward to me. Thanks

Really appreciate your concern.

Love yah

Shannon Marie DeCarlo (Maiden name Iller) Class of 1965

Lost her battle to Cervical cancer May 23, 2011.

She was born on June 16, 1947.

Thank you,

Gary Nadell '65

Gary

This is all I could find on Shannon. I checked the 1965 yearbook and couldn't find a graduation picture. Where did you find out about her death? Please advise.

Thanks Buffalo Bob Casale

Name: Shannon M DeCarlo

Born: 13 June 1947

Died: 23 May 2011

Last known address: 10901 Running Buck Lane, Austin, TX 78750

Death Notice

DeCarlo, Shannon Marie, 63, of Austin died May 23. Survived by husband Daniel. Services 11 A.M. Saturday, Central Christian Church. Arrangements by Cook-Walden/Chapel of the Hills.

Bob,

Shannon lived around the corner from me on Lehigh Lane. I have known her as a close friend since 1953. She was my wife's maid of honor, and I was her husband's best man at our weddings. She dropped out of high school in her junior year, and later got her GED. I see them 3 or 4 times a year and I attended her memorial service this past Saturday. The address and the death notice you have are both correct.

Dear Buffalo Bob

Where our own beloved Buffalo Bob corresponds for a few pages with a random reader and I get a cameo too!

Dear David Rubin,

Whatever you did, I could read through the entire newsletter. Which I did. Thanks for listening to my suggestion.

Just a note. Last year I was able to visit Hicksville, my old neighborhood of Beech Lane. I have had so many dreams about the place that I was pleasantly surprised that not much had changed. Many of my wonderful neighbors, Jamie Anzalone, and his wife, daughter and mother, the Hoberocks, the Padrocks, all seemed to be as I remembered them when I last saw them 25 years ago. The trees were a bit larger, but there it all was as I remembered.

I was lucky to visit my favorite teacher, Pamela Vassil, one of the great art teachers at Hicksville HS. I realize now that Pam was perhaps 4 years older than myself at the time, and so now, we seemed to be the same age, indeed. We had a great visit, and she was the one person who made me realize that it would be possible to become an artist and teacher (which I now am at Weber State University in Ogden, Utah). When I talk to my own students these days, and tell them about the fantastic education I got in all subjects at HHS, they are very envious, of the great and diverse classes in the arts in particular.

I hope the many former HHS students realize what a great education we got! Best.

Susan Makov '70

Editor Note: What was the number of your house on Beech Lane?

Dear Bob,

It was 45 Beech Lane, and my family lived there until about 1982. My mother passed away then, leaving my brother and I the house. We sold it to Jamie Anzalone, whom I used to babysit for. He has done amazing things with the house since then. It was a great neighborhood to grow up in. And it looks very much the same as I remembered it. Out here in Utah I am envious of all the folks whose childhood friends are still nearby. There is something great about having a common background and history with people around you. The Mormons here are quite into the background and history thing. Have you ever done Ancestry.com? A local business, with roots in the Mormon Church, it is an amazing heritage source. I actually found a whole branch of my family, up until last year, unaccounted for! No, I never became Mormon, but it has been interesting to observe.

Keep that newsletter going. It is my link to my old community and I thank you for it.

Best, Susan

Continued

Dear Buffalo Bob

Sue

Do you have a picture of your old house that was taken when you lived there?

I found the following on the Nassau site taken in March of 2000

The below right was taken around 1956 or 1957

Thanks, Susan. I'm glad the font issue was resolved.

I, too, had a teacher in HHS that impacted my life in such a positive way. Mr. Ferris, my chemistry teacher, opened my mind to the sciences and instilled a desire to not only learn the formulas and concepts but to question why. That led to my degree in Chemistry from RPI and a brief stint at teaching high school chemistry in New Hampshire amongst many other science positions through my life. That one year of teaching was the best year of my life and, when I retire from this career, I will definitely go back and pay back Mr. Ferris for all the kindness he showed us. We did indeed get an education that is rarely seen these days. Times were special back then for education and the breadth of education we received. We were/all blessed to have grown up in Hicksville.

Kind regards,

David Rubin '82

So ends another episode of "Dear Buffalo Bob"

Tune in next month for another nostalgic episode, sure to bring back wondrous memories... we hope!

A History of Hicksville

Robert Williams purchased from Pugnipan, Sachem of the Matinecock Indians, on May 20, 1648, the area known as the Williams Plantation which would be today part of Jericho, Woodbury, Hicksville, Plainview and Bethpage, for a quantity of trading (English) cloth.

Thomas Hicks, the son of John Hicks who settled in Hempstead along with Robert Williams, obtained a grant of 4000 acres of land around Great Neck in 1666. Two of Thomas' sons are important to the Hicksville story.

Benjamin Hicks, Thomas' sixth son, married Phebe Titus. It was their grandson, Valentine, who was to become of the founders of Hicksville in the Plantation area.

Jacob Hicks' famous grandson, Elias, was born on March 10, 1748, at Rockaway, Long Island. His marriage to Jemina Seaman, January 02, 1771, brought him to live with his in-laws in the Williams Plantation. They had three daughters; it was Abigail, who married her cousin Valentine Hicks. Sarah, married Robert Seaman, and Martha, married Royal Aldrich. Each of these daughters shared in the division of Elias' property which included the Hicksville area. The three sons-in-law were executors. The will is simple. In it, in addition to equal shares to his children and mention that Abigail's share was to be taken from a sum owed him under bond by Valentine, he provided a life estate for David, the colored man who had long lived with him.

Valentine Hicks purchased tracts of land from Royal Aldrich and William Willets in the Plantation. In 1834 he formed a Land Association with Robert Seaman, David Seaman and others. The land was surveyed and laid out in numbered building lots. The map of the area drawn in October 1836, by Morris M. Fosdick was filed in Queens County in December of that year.

The problem before the associates was to encourage land purchases in small parcels. One inducement seemed to be secure a quick route to New York. The nearest road connection was the Jericho Turnpike, located several miles away. The answer lay in bringing a railroad to the area.

In 1834 Valentine Hicks and others appeared before the State Legislature for the passage of an act to incorporate a railroad. On April 24, 1834 an act was passed incorporating the Long Island Railroad.

Two years prior to this, the Brooklyn and Jamaica Railroad was under construction between the villages whose names it bore. The Long Island Railroad rented this line and commenced construction from Jamaica to Greenport. The tracks were extended to Hicksville in 1835. The first timetable called for two daily each way. When the railroad reached the place where the old Newbridge Road linked with the Jericho Road (now North Broadway), a new and more important crossroads community was born.

Three years before the LIRR arrived at Hicksville, the Jackson Brothers established a livery stable here in 1834. The stable was located near today's depot at the sight which later became the location of the famous Grand Central Hotel (built by Timothy Jackson). His business picked up after 1837 when newspaper advertisements praised the Hicksville depot as an excellent stopover for hunters and fishermen. The advertisement said that Jackson's livery stable would provide horses and wagon for the drive toward Massapequa, Seaford and Bayshore where the marshes full of ducks were a hunter's paradise.

A History of Hicksville

It is reported that in 1836 G. William Totten ran the first stage, which also carried the mails, between Hicksville Syosset and Cold Spring Harbor.

With the coming of the Germans, Hicksville as a railroad terminus began to take on the appearance of a community. It was in 1844 that Hicksville had two trains passing through it each way daily, a fire broke out in the depot. It was the Fourth of July, an old time account says. When that Independence Day was over, the railroad station, engine round house and storage shed were in ruins. The first station was located north of the railroad near today's Memorial Fountain.

It is very likely that some of Valentine Hicks' hopes for a community on his lands near the depot went up in smoke along with the railroad's property. After the fire, the namesake of the village did not have too many more years to live. In 1849, just a year before his death, Valentine Hicks and the Hicksville Association sold 1,000 acres of their lands to a group of out-of-town real estate speculators, among them Frederick Heyne and John Heitz. These investors, new in the area, were German immigrants to the United States. By the middle of the nineteenth century, great numbers of German and Irish people were emigrating to America.

1850 marked the passing of Valentine Hicks whom we remember for his farsightedness and initiative and whose name the community bears. The year was also marked by the efforts of the German-Americans to take up the task left uncompleted by Hicks. Frederick Heyne laid out streets on his property map and advertised for lot buyers among his native countrymen in New York City. Little by little, individuals and then families, came from the city to seek a new life.

A History of Queens County, published in 1882 states that John Heitz was born in Germany in 1818. He wanted to become a minister, but gave up that desire to become a watchmaker. In 1847, with his widowed mother, he landed in America. For three years he conducted a successful watch making business in New York. It is there he may have met Heyne, and together they invested in Hicksville land. He moved to Hicksville and erected a small store. He increased his holdings in Hicksville land and laid out wide, regular streets lined with trees. In 1859, Heitz, went to Jericho woodlands and gathered hundreds of small maple and locust trees. He transplanted these trees on his acreage which included the present court house area. He went into retirement for six years, but in 1869 opened a dry-goods and clothing business. He was one of the founders of the Agricultural Society of Hicksville and was its vice-president for many years. It was he who donated land for a public school in 1852. A little later he gave the land for a union chapel. The present Methodist Church is situated on the plot today. In 1881 he died.
